Dear

You was kind enough to provide ambulance call out information in the past for the stables market; I now have a more detailed request as the situation is quite out of control with the high volume of licensed venues so close to a dense residential community & the councils continuous granting of late alcohol licence's is negatively affecting residential life.

With the ultimate aim of requesting licensing reviews of the most troublesome licensed venues, can I request a log of the number of call outs to the following venues please?

Additionally are you able to indicate how many call outs were alcohol related to each venue.

Also the number of alcohol related incidents in the same period in the London Borough of Camden.

Dear

Thank you for your request for information, placed under the Freedom of Information Act (2000) (FOIA) which Ms Powell has referred to me as Head of Department.

I regret that unfortunately, given the large number of locations (which can only be found by a text search) and the time period the data is required for, the search of our systems would potentially return thousands of records. Each incident record in the result set would need to be manually checked to ensure it is one of the specified locations, accounting for variations in spellings etc.

I am sure you will appreciate that it would take a significant effort to manually identify this information. I estimate that the time which would be taken in determining whether the above information is held, locating and retrieving the material containing that information and extracting any relevant information would take more than 18 hours (the 'appropriate limit' as defined by the FOIA). Accordingly, relying on Section 12 of the Act, your request for access under the FOIA is refused by the Trust.

I should also explain that the data provided should not be held to be exclusively reliable, as analysis is dependent on the incident codes documented by the attending ambulance staff. Thus it remains a possibility that incidents which were alcohol related were not immediately obvious, and that the data may not reflect every incident, given that a principal determinate may have been recorded, for example by the type of injury.

I am sorry to provide with what I imagine will be a disappointing response. I am however obliged to advise you that if you are dissatisfied with the Trust's response to your request you have a right to complain to the Trust and should set out your concerns to Mr Peter Suter, Director of Information Management & Technology, London Ambulance Service NHS Trust, 220 Waterloo Road, London SE1 8SD. If you then still remain dissatisfied, you have a right under Section 50 of the FOIA to seek a determination from the Information Commissioner on whether the Act has been properly applied by the Trust. Yours sincerely
